THE ROYAL VISIT TO INDIA.

While the Prince and Princess of Wales are passing through the Sues Canal on route to the East, the elder members of the British commanity in Egypt will no doubt recall the interest that was excited by the departure of our present King, than Prince of Wales, for the East in 1875. Then the vogal timerary included Cairo, and the Prince rejoined the transport Serapis at Sues, resiching Aden on the 1st of November and Bombay on the 3th, the eve of his brithday. The present Prince of Wales will rescale Bombay on that ampinious data, and we do not doubt that the 9th of November will be onloaded at which we have been applied to the 1st of November will be orderated with even from the 1st of November will be orderated with even from the 1st of November will be orderated with even from the 1st of November will be orderated with the 9th of November will be orderated with the 9th of November will be orderated with the 9th of November will be presence among our fallow-subjects of the Heir-Apparent and his gracious of south at the 1st of 1st gress. Wars have, ives true, retarded in some degree the development of the Indian Empire. The hill tribes have given constantitychle and still require the vigilant watch of our frontier garrisons, Anglo-Indian armines have entered Kabol and Kandahar, Mandalay and Lhasses, and events beyond the N.-W. frontier have much excognization of the Indian Army a necessity. It is unfortunate that this reorganisation of the Indian Army a necessity. It is unfortunate that this reorganisation should have led to a dispute between one of the ablest of British soldiers and the most energetio and far-sessing of researt Vicerops of India, but it will the in somis measure a consolation to Indro Gernot to be able to welcome the Prince and Princess of Wales on their arrival to the dependency which he has so ably and so justly ruled.

LORD ROSEBERY'S VIEWS.

LONDON October 26. Lorson, October 26.
Lord Rosebery, apoking at Stourbridge, asid that the Japanese treaty is an engine of tramendous power but that it will probably lead to considers animosities. Neverthelese, with good men at the lein, we shall be able to degat all hostile combinations. The agreement with France has received a menh more nandmons assent from the nation. He regretted that its explicit only a second of a bitter animosity of Germany, which compared to the consistency of a bitter animosity to Germany, which constitutes a serious danger to the peace of the world.

THE MECCA PILGRIMAGE.

REGULATIONS CONCERNING

The Ministry of the Interior have issued a note relative to the expenses incurred by the pilgrims who accompany the Mahmal to Mocco. The accounts which, have been drawn up for the Ministry of Finance show that last year the travelling expenses of the pilgrims accompanying the Mahmal exceeded the sum deposited. The accounts which here been drawn up by the Ministry of Finance show that hat year the mixed by Finance and the last year the mixed with the Ministry of Finance and the last year the mixed with the mixed of the same deposited by them for the deflaying of such expenses, and when the Government has had to pay the across. "The surples," according to the text of the bronch, "has become such a heavy charge that the Government cannot support it." It has therefore I been decided to increase by a small amount the sum to be deposited by each pitgrim who wishes to accompany the Maintan, but should the amount thus deposited across the expenses of the journey the surples will be reimburged to the pitgrims.

This now are in consequence of the activation of the journey in consequence of the activation of the judgmin and draw attention to the fact that it is the distribution of the scale of the pitgrim. The consequence of the activation of the large in Egypt, the Sunfary Board of Constantingple subjected pitgrim, roging to the Helgian, to a preliminary quarastine, which, with the distribution, gave rate to the levy of a maximum tax of LE. 50 per pitgrim. This tax was payable at Sone and caused considerable ombarrassment to the pitgrims who did not know beforehand that such a call would be, made typin them. The Government has therefore decided that this sum must be deposited in advance, as well as the LE. 55 ordinarily deposited for the well as the LE. 55 ordinarily deposited for the well as the LE. 55 ordinarily deposited for the well as the LE. 55 ordinarily deposited for the well as the LE. 55 ordinarily deposited for the well as the LE. 55 ordinarily deposited for the well as the LE. 55 ordinarily deposited for the well as the LE. 55 ordinarily deposited for the well as the LE. 55 ordinarily deposited for the second considerable.

The Government has therefore decided that this sum must be deposited in advance, as well as the LR 55 ordinarily deposited for the quarantine expenses on the return journey by all the pilgrims who do not accompany the Mahmal.

Mahmal.

Under such conditions the pilgrim will have already paid all expenses, be it for disinfection at Sone, or Tor, or for the preliminary quarantine, and will not have to further concern himself with the payments of the different taxes for these several operations. If quarantine on the way to Meson and disinfection size not necessary, as there is every reason to hope will be the case this year, the excess amount deposited by the pilgrim will be refunded to him on his return.

SALVINI AS "HAMLET."

Cavaliere Salvini, who is at present occupying the boards of the Zirinia Theatre, took his "benefit" last night, who he appeared in Shakespeare's sublime tragedy Hamlet. The occasion was a verticable triumph for the great Palian tragediae. Although some little exception might be taken to the production as a whole, there was no gainsaying the power of Salvinia's impersonation of the Prime of Denmark. His conception of Hamlet differed from those we have been accustomed to see on the English stage in that there was little of that melancolia with which the character is generally invested. From the days of Kemble downwards, our Hamletz have all soffered too much of the magrims. They have had too strong an affinity with the Stranger. But "melancholy," in the case of Hamlet, is not the word. The King and Queen think, or prefer to pretend to think, that he is melancholy, but Hamlet is really a subtlered, soured, indigenant. It is not the loss of his father teat is "within' him and in the substantial of the substa

CORPORATION OF WESTERN EGYPT.

The following report, dated Saptember 22, which is of the utmost importance in its bearing upon the value of the extensive land grants made by the Egyptian Government to the Corporation, has been received from Mr. H. J. L. Beachell, the Corporation's Manager in the Oases and Geological Export. It should be remembered that Mr. Beachell speaks with nine years' intimate acquaintance with the Oases, and as it will be seen that no difficulty is likely to be experienced in obtaining attesian supplies of water, the successful irrigation of these leads is seemingly assured.

NOTE ON THE WATER SUPPLY OF KHARGEH AND DAKHLA

The present output of water from the wells of the Southern Oases (Khargeh and Dakhis may be taken as approximately 200,000 cobic metres per annum. This water is sofficient to irrigate 30,000 seres, the duty being some 5,600 acres per onlie metre per recond.

some 6,600 acres per cubic metre per recon-The underground artenian supply being pra-tically inexhancible, the output at the so face may be almost indefinitely augmente provided the wells are sonk in suitable loc littles and kept sufficiently far apart to ayou any appreciable reduction of the hydrostat pressure.

any appreciable reduction of the hydronatio pressure.

The region of the Oases being practically rainless, the origin of the underground water must be looked for in remote regions. In all probability the supply is derived from the rainy districts of Darier and from the swamps of the Bahr el Ghazal. There appears to be a considerable difference between the amount of water discharged into the swamps from the various tributaries of the Nils and the theoretical amount lost by evaporation, and this difference may be secontated for by punderground leakage. This water, together with that from the rains of Darier, flows northwards through the provise beds of, the Nubian Sandatione, which have agreemed dip to the north. It is kept down by impermasable bods of elsy, through which it rises udder presence when these are pierced by borings. The difference of level between the water-bearings. stratum in the Oases and the swamps of the sudd district is over 400 metres.

Up to the present time practically the shole supply of water is from one or more select of sandstone lying at an average depth of 120 metres, below the Oases floor. It is just to possible, therefore, that still deeper orings would strike other water-basing tables, in which the water would be under still greater pressure. Such a supply would be unralisable, for those districts in which, owing to the higher average feel of the cultivable and, or on account of the excessive number of existing wells, the water from the existing when the surface of the cultivable mand, or on account of the excessive number of existing wells, the water from the existing when the surface has the surface of the surface of

The Oases lands have one great advantage over those of the Nile Valley in that they as not dependent on the time, volume and during them of the Nile Flood. With proper ca and attention the output of wells remain the control of the Nile Flood. and attention the output of wells remains constant and, in several instances wells sunk thousands of years sgo by the Romans and early Egyptians, are still yielding over 500 gallons a minute.

AN ELEPHANT'S ESCAPADE.

The little French town of Agen was last week thrown into consternation by an elephant in panic. A drawmatised version of Jules Verne's "Round the World in Eighty Days" is being played at the loos of theatre, and an elephant had been hired for the purposa. The elephant, la powerful young beat, was being taken through the streets to the theatre, with his keeper in regulation position on or the haveball. Stanebow the unwonted spectacle seemed to attract to the line of route every dog in Agens attract to the line of route every dog in Agens attract to the line of route every dog in Agens that the street is the contract to the land of the street, and the street is a street, as externing like front, the elephant gave my rousenthing like front, which is the street, as externing everything before him right and left, to the imminent paril of the max, in the howdah, who, however, had the presence of mind to stick close to his perch. It was not until the brute had of rashed into the middle of a large abog through its plate-glass frontage, and had rained the entire stock of a leading tradesmar, that he donneated to reflect opon the indecorous lavity of his antien. When he had duly considered matters he permitted himself to be again director towards the the theatter, leaving much weekage and a heavy bill of coats behind him.

PIGMIES IN ANCIENT EGYPT. HOW THE PRINCE & PRINCESS

M. Edouard Naville, D.C.L., LL.D., write as follows to the 'Lancet':—
Sir,—The articles of Dr. G. Elliot Smith and Dr. A. Churchward both contain information which is highly interesting for Egyptologists. I have often advocated the idea that in researches we look too much towards the explanations of difficulties in the religion, the coatoms, and even the language of the old Egyptians if we studied more carefully the African populations which were their neigh-

African populations which were their neighbors.

As for dwarfs or pigmies I cannot agree with the opinion of my eminent friend, M. Maspero, on this point. I believe the Egyptian texts mention two different kinds. One is the real dwarf, the deformed being whom rich people like to have in their houses for ammentent, and chiefly for dancing. Their misshapen bodies seen to me the prototypes of the god Bes and also of a form of Phtah, ashash cean condusively shown by Dr. Carrot (Recoult II, p. 129). Bat in other cases I think that the Egyptians mally meant pigmies. For instance, the Dang's high got the Sixth Dynasty must be pigmies. Dwarfs are not rare in Egypt and if the Dangs had been only small and d'sotreb doies I est Dwarfs are not rare in Expts and if the Danga had been only must and if shorted bodies I eee no reason by their arrival in Egypt should have been an event, why the kings should have been an event, why the kings should have valued them so much, and why an officer should have recopied in his biography that he brought with him one of those beings if they were not of rare occurrence. The Danga must have belonged to an African tribe which had especial projensity to dancing like other fell-sized Apirkan populations. In the temples at Dieped-Babrij and at Lucar was es dancing exceuted by the Tamaho, a well-known African mation. Thego occur in various exercises for the executed by the Tamaho, a well-known African mation. They good in various exercises for the occasion, they wear outrich feathers, and they are called "the chaners of the royal beat."

If the case of the Daggai is still doubtful! can quote two instances in which it seems to be outsin that the inscriptions mean pigmiss. In the soulptupes which describe a great featival in the tumple at Babatia was see a procession of priorits, amay g whom are three small mem masching along and bolding long causes. They have a title which Brosgoth translates "grants", "bastles," results with seed to the contract of the mall nem gashing along and bothing long canes. They have a ritle which Brought translates "gard," beading, "conditing connected with the police of the temple. These gards its neither children are dwarf; they are wall proportioned and are certainly pigmies. They are probably not Egyptians, for we find it the same ceremony another African population, it e anne or Auto it Nubis, canning from the south, At third extraordinary figure is a man having a face like Bes but a well-proper ioned body. The inceription which is above the figure canotic be understood; it ends with "mansau name," which may be this man's language, another instance where we find the pigmies mentioned is in a nome or district inscription from the temple at Thile of the time of Prolemy IV. It begins with the nome of Nobis, where we find the words: "I give my bow to his Majelty that he miny subdue the Anti... the dwarfs of the scoutheries of the routh bring their irributesy to his palaco." Now it is clear that below we must translate pigmies and not dwarfs. Dwarfs could not pay tribute, it must be a settled population. Here, again, as at Belbartii, they are quoted with the Anti and are said to come from the abouth where we expect to find the spigmies.

I might add to these two instances the population called the effects of interface profession. Here which Brangeh or aiden; and add to these two instances the population called the contraction of the pigmies.

FRENCH RESERVE OFFICERS

The controversy that has arisen around the fail of M. Deleases has at least had one definite rasult. It has brought to the light of day the weak points in the defensive resources of Prance. Barly in the discussion it was revealed that the frontier fortnesses on the Bast were in no condition for meeting a bombardment. Now we learn that 'the territorial army, on which, of course, the bulk of the fighting would fall in even of invarious, is in a sad state of discregarisation owing to the want of officers. It is said that the abortage is fully 10,000, and that allowing 60 men for each officer, quite 600,000 men would be reduced to uselessness for want of leaders.
